Jujutsu kaisen ended... was it any good?!

In short it was mid

The ending of Jjk has become a contentious topic among the community and I'm here to say... I can agree with a lot of people. The ending is certainly rushed, not the best way to end the series but I personally enjoy it.

I don't want to spoil too much about the ending, go read it yourself. But some things will be spoiled in this article.

The final panel is what I think drags this ending down the most. How the series ends with a single sukuna finger still being around and left where the original finger was stolen. This part was the dumbest part, and yes gojo not getting a funeral is kinda stupid.

Personally I'm one of the apparent minority who actually thinks gojo should be dead. And that his death made complete sense. But I will admit, gojo was done dirty in the ending. Meanwhile I kinda like Sukuna's ending, it makes a lot of sense when you actually think about. He lost, that would probably be the only thing to make him reconsider his ideology and attempt to redeem himself in his next life, and Mahito obviously wouldn't, he's Mahito.

I love the final battle with the random curse user, it makes sense that their final mission would be just a normal weak curse user after fighting THE GODDAMN KING OF BLIMMING CURSES. My biggest gripe with the ending is that EVERYONE'S ALIVE!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Even my man Higuruma, he should be dead, that would have been his perfect conclusion.

In conclusion I rate the Jjk ending a 5/10. It was very mid.

KAOS Netflix series reviewed!

IS THAT JEFF GOLDBLUM!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

This new series released on Netflix 29th August 2024, is an interesting new take on Greek mythology which manages to be both hilarious and serious at the same time.

The show's is that the all-powerful, yet insecure Greek god Zeus keeps his fellow god Prometheus shackled to a cliffside and tortured in punishment for having dared to interfere with his arbitrary and autocratic rule. Prometheus, who acts throughout as narrator, tells of a prophecy: "A line appears, the order wanes, the family falls, and Kaos reigns."

Having for many years bided his time, Prometheus now activates his plan to overthrow Zeus with the help of the prophecy and the unwitting involvement of three mortal humans, Eurydice, Caeneus and Ariadne.

Every actor was cast perfectly, I love the timidity of David Thewlis' Hades and the rage of Janet McTeer's Hera. And of course Jeff Graces us with his immaculate acting prowess again as he plays my second favourite version of Zeus ever (My favourite one is from EPIC the musical). The human characters do feel a bit flat but fun none the less.

This take on Greek mythology is very intriguing and makes me want a season 2 so we can see more of the gods. One thing I have to say is THEY CALL HERACLES, HERCULES WHEN ALL OTHER CHARACTERS HAVE THEIR GREEK NAME.

I can't really explain too much without spoiling so I'll leave this article on my final rating, 8.5/10.

My Genshin character idea!

I love Genshin impact so much!

Genshin has tons of fun characters so why not take a crack at designing my own.

Firstly name, I'm currently going with the name, Lola Gretir. My favourite region is Liyue, so my character is from there, specifically she was born in Chenyu vale. She is a 4 star hydro claymore user.

Now for a backstory: She was orphaned at six after her parents were killed by the Fatui. She was quickly found and adopted by the humble Gretir family. Her dad taught her the art of blacksmithing and, from the age of fifteen, she became one of the best blacksmith's in all of Liyue.

One day, when she was seventeen, a few rogue Fatui agents tried to force her father to make some weapons for them. When her father refused, they tried to kill him, enraging Lola so much that she grabbed nearby sword and ran into the fight. Within minutes, three of the four agents lay dead and the fourth had ran.

It was in this moment her vision appeared in her hand. She used this vision to climb the ranks of Liyue's military, eventually becoming a general. Currently Lola is an energetic battle hungry warrior who always jumps at the chance to slay the agents of Fatui.

The next and probably most important aspect, abilities. Her normal attack is a basic sword swing. Charged attack is similar to Dilluc's. The plunging attack has her jab her sword directly downward dealing hydro damage.

Her elemental skill has her jump up and slam down her fist on an enemy dealing hydro damage and healing the party member with the lowest health by a small amount. When charged up it heals for more and sends any opponent in its increased range flying.

Her elemental burst has her summon a tidal wave and aim it forward dealing massive hydro damage to anyone caught in its path, it's also unblockable. And lastly design.

This was really fun to come up with. I might do more challenge ideas like this in future issues

The Minecraft movie looks terrible!!!

I... AM STEVE!!! Says jack back in a blue shirt.

The teaser trailer for the Minecraft movie releasing in 2025 just released. AND WHAT THE ACTUAL HELL!!! This trailer looks terrible. In the entire trailer there was less than 10 combined seconds of creepers, skeleton's or even zombies.

Seemingly it's plot is just "Jumanji welcome to the jungle" but with Minecraft. The CGI looks fine, except the backgrounds, They look nothing like Minecraft. The mobs look way too furry.

Aswell they somehow have done the impossible... they made JASON FREAKING MOMOA look unattractive. That shouldn't even be possible.

No Minecraft music or fan music was used in the trailer making it feel way too corporate. The villains seem to be the piglins (NOT THE ENDER DRAGON, THE FINAL BOSS OF THE GAME) similar to the spinoff game "Minecraft Legends".

I think the movie should have been animated or they should have spent more time working on the script like the fnaf movie (An actually good adaptation). I do not have high hopes for the Minecraft movie.

I will have to watch it when it releases, but I think it will just be a good lesson of what not to do when adapting a video game to film.

My roster pitch for an actual dc fighting game (Not Injustice)!
